#MyKilnerStory

Hi Rayware team!

My name's Lauren, you may remember me from a pretty big campaign called #MyKilnerStory which was launched back in May. The competition is now closed! We've had a fantastic response from Kilner fan's around the world who have submitted their wonderful selfie's to Facebook, displaying how they use their Kilner jar. The winner has been announced and our favourite entries have been selected. Have a little look at our #MyKilnerStory video on the next page which sum's the campaign up perfectly. Enjoy!

The Iconic Mixing Bowls Loved by the Great British Bake Off

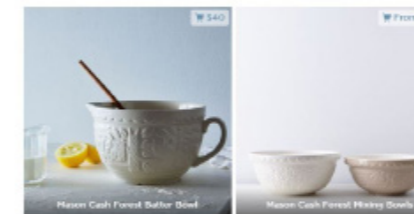

There's plenty of room for the new and the novel in this world, but in our kitchens, we most often turn to the stalwarts and the steady. In other words, the classics. Mason Cash is one of those iconic brands we're proud to carry in our shop and keep on our counter tops and in our cabinets. Originating in the UK, the Mason Cash range and their earthenware bowls have been sought after and beloved by home cooks everywhere for the last 200 years.

Church Gresley was one of a collection of English villages at the epicentre of a flourishing pottery industry during the nineteenth century. Along with Swadlowcote and Woodville, these villages gave rise to a community of potters and artisans who were drawn to the region because of the plentiful, naturally occurring red and clay.

Mason Cash Forest Buffer Bowl

Much of the pottery from these villages, including Mason Cash, is considered "yellowware" or "creamware", a specific type of earthenware typical to South Derbyshire and named after the yellowish hue of the local clay.

Jarvis Wedgwood (founder of the famed porcelain and china company) was the first to develop creamware. In the 1790s, Wedgwood began mimicking the detailed blue relief designs found on the crust of a game pie on the outside of their earthenware. Because of wood shortages at the time, a result of trade disputes during the Napoleonic wars, the elaborate pastry crusts of game pies were considered a frivolous use of flour. Instead, the Wedgwood dishes recreated the designs on the outside of their vessels to maintain the decorative element, while the contents of the game pie could be baked inside without a crust.

Mason Cash Forest Mixing Jug

In 1811, Cash was commissioned to create a set of bowls and a mixing jug for the Duke of Devonshire. The original design was a set of bowls and a mixing jug, which they kept in the Duke's collection.

3 Hardworking kitchen

No dining room? No worries. Maximise your kitchen space with plenty of storage and an extended work surface and breakfast bar area

Dedicate a corner of your kitchen to a neat breakfast bar for an extra seating area

Invest in a kitchen trolley to provide more work surface areas plus extra shelving

Floor-to-ceiling shelving is the perfect solution for small or awkward spaces

Features and styling from Fibre's Styling assistants Agnes, Zsófia, Charlotte Pop. Photos: Luke Crane. Set builder: Jax Green.

Magic up the feeling of space with a few optical tricks. No matter how small your kitchen is, painting a bold, vibrant colour on one or more walls will draw your eyes to the back of the room, making it feel instantly bigger. Sneak in as much storage as possible too, to keep your kitchen looking uncluttered. Dispense with kitchen wall units which can sometimes make a tight space look overly cramped. Look instead for other storage solutions like a moveable kitchen trolley, custom pieces and wall hanging rails to keep your utensils and spices close to hand but also freeing up more room in your cupboards and on your worktops. If you're lucky enough to have windows with a view, dress them simply, allowing the outside in. Take advantage of available vertical space by adding open access storage shelves.

'Haven't got a separate dining room? Zone different areas in the kitchen with a contrasting floor tile, to accentuate an eating area'

American-style blueberry

Ingredients
500g plain flour
5g vanilla protein powder
2 tsp baking powder
100g caster sugar
500ml milk
2 eggs
2 tbsp coconut oil, for cooking
400g blueberries, plus extra for scattering

To serve
Zero-fat Greek yoghurt
Maple syrup

Method
1 Tip the flour into a bowl and add the protein powder, baking powder and sugar.
2 Measure out the milk, then crack the eggs straight into the measuring jug. Give the two ingredients a good whisk until well combined. Gradually pour the wet mixture into the dry mixture, stirring or whisking as you go to avoid lumps.
3 When all the liquid has been incorporated, give the mixture a final whisk until smooth.
4 Melt a little coconut oil in a good non-stick frying pan over a medium to high heat. When it is hot, pour in one ladleful of the batter, which will spread out across the base of the pan to about 15cm wide and 1cm-1.5cm thick. Fry the pancake on the first side for 3 min, reducing the temperature a little if the pancake starts to burn.
5 While the pancake is cooking, scatter about an eighth of the blueberries in a single layer over the uncooked surface of the pancake. They will be held in place by the raw batter.
6 Flip the pancake and cook for a further 2-3 min, again upping or

Pretty empty jars and bottles with paint to make sweet springtime vases. Wash and dry, then pour in a little emulsion paint and tilt to coat the sides. Leave to dry. Place smaller containers inside to hold water for the flowers so the paint doesn't peel.

Give your kitchen a CLASSIC COUNTRY look

Give your kitchen a quintessential cottage look with a coat of paint and a few well-chosen items of furniture

1. Curtain call
The under-sink unit door ages fastest, so replace the lumpy door with a pretty gathered curtain, simply hung on curtain wire attached with hook-and-eye fittings. For a similar fabric, try the Provence Stripes, £8.50 per m, Textile Express.

2. Open shelves
Long, white-painted open shelves supported by matching brackets are a cheap and simple way to add storage. Create the look with beech brackets, £8.99 each, and white shelf board, from £8.99 for 60cm x 70cm, all Homebase.

3. Cast a light
An ornate pendant helps to mark out the dining area in an eat-in kitchen. Don't hang it too low over the table, though, or you'll bang your head! The Holmes pendant, £27, from B&Q, is similar to this one, but comes in a cool grey finish.

4. Skinny dresser
A tall piece like this gives you plenty of storage but uses up only a small amount of floor space, so it doesn't encroach too much on the room. We love the Hazelwood Home display cabinet, £562, Wayfair.

5. Painted table
If your kitchen table has taken a bit of a beating over the years, prime and paint those scuffed and scratched legs with a modern country colour that's easy to wipe clean. Try Natural Hessian satinwood, £10.40 for 750ml, Dulux.

Although it's a long way from her native land, Chris Myers' house is a lovely open-plan of properties there, with their wooden wrap-around veranda and spacious, airy rooms. "When we first saw it, we were in a bit of a bind," she says. Scandinavian and New England influences are also evident – an abundance of large windows and glass doors that make the most of the light, pale-painted woodwork and simple furniture. A long-time fan of Country Living magazine, "I've been buying it since the first issue as it provides the most amazing inspiration for all the things I love about rural life," Chris finally made the move from north London in February 2000 with husband Neil and their sons Nick, then aged nine, and Stefan, five. "The Chelsea was a bit of a compromise initially as Chris wanted to move further into the countryside, but the area offered Neil easy rail access to London for work, as well as the quiet setting they had been searching for. Once the practicalities of education had been attended to, Chris set about transforming the property. After years of experimenting with colour and style, she was drawn to a simpler, less cluttered aesthetic, using furniture and shades that create a sense of space. "There was a lot of work when we arrived," she recalls. "We had to make it less girly and more acceptable for the boys." They also spent many weekends clipping up carpets. A love of natural wood, Chris was keen to discover the condition of the

ABOUT ME I'm Debbie Kutner, 40, and I run my own interior design company, pearlroseinteriors.co.uk. I live with my husband, Darren, 44, a chartered quantity surveyor, and our children, Aaron, 12, Sebastian, nine, and Saskia, four, in a five-bedroom extended house in north London. We moved here in 2014.

WHEN I BOUGHT IT The house hadn't been modernised since the 1970s and had a granny annex, retro orange kitchen and subergine bathroom suite.

AND NOW We remodelled and updated the entire house.
