Save a load of cash with a set of funky gingham check oven-to-table dishes that will brighten up meal times. The four stoneware dishes have been slashed from £59.99 to £19.99 at studio.co.uk.

What's new?

We are ready to cook up a storm with these clever copper-base pans from Viners. As well as looking fab they come with internal measurement markings so you can ensure you add just the right amount of liquid - and save on the washing up as there is no need for measuring jugs. The range includes a 14cm milk pan for £22.50, 16cm sauce pan with lid £29, 24cm non-stick frying pan £42, and 26cm stock pot with lid for £52.50. viners.co.uk

Trolley dash... at Wilko

Get ready with some pre-spring cleaning - big brands have been slashed by up to 50% at Wilko. Mr Muscle Power Bathroom Cleaner (500ml) is down from £3 to £1.50. Lilt Bang Mould Remover (750ml) has been zapped from £3.50 to £1.75, and Cif Power and Shine Kitchen (700ml) is knocked down from £3.30 to £1.50. Clean up with Dettol Power and Fresh Citrus and Lime Splash

Wipes (80) now £1.75 instead of £3.50. And spruce up the dishwasher with Finish Dishwasher Cleaner (250ml) down from £3.50 to £1.75. Doing the laundry is also cheaper as Persil Powercaps Bio (30 washes) are half price at £5. Also down by 50% are Comfort Intense Fuchsia Passion fabric conditioner (570ml) now £1.80, and Lenor Perfume Secret Blush (1 litre) which tumbles to £4.

3 new things
we got excited about this week

Frozen Tenderstem Broccoli, £1.75, Iceland

All the convenience of our favourite brassica, but in a freezer version. Cook straight from frozen and be impressed.

Dr Oetker Banana & Choc Chip Fud In A Mug, 85p, Asda

Banana cake might be the easiest of cakes to make, but this one is even easier: ready in 2 minutes, in a mug. What's not to love?

SaClà Free From Mayonnaise, £2.29, Sainsbury's, Co-op & Ocado

Dairy-, gluten- and egg-free - the what? The how? Problematically, if you take almost everything that makes mayo out, the result is not very mayo-like. Still, at a push...

GREEK-STYLE HALLOUMI SALAD

This is a great sharing dish to make for a weekend lunch, especially if you have vegetarians at the table...

★ To make the marinade, whisk 2 tsp olive oil with the juice of half a lemon (reserve the other half for the dressing) and 1 tsp dried oregano. Season well with salt and pepper.

★ Cut 1 pack halloumi into slices, lay them on a plate and cover with the marinade.

★ Meanwhile, make a salad. Then heat 1 tsp olive oil in a large pan and fry a finely chopped red onion until soft.

★ Add 100g tomatoes, 50g mixed olives and 1 pack of Tilda Super Grains Garlic & Ginger. Heat through and keep warm.

★ Now make a dressing. Place 1 large handful basil, 1 large handful mint, juice of the other half of the lemon, 2 tsp olive oil and 1 tsp white wine vinegar into a mini food processor and blitz until smooth. Season with salt and pepper and blitz again to mix.

★ Add the marinated halloumi to a griddle pan and cook until golden brown on both sides, adding any remaining marinade juices to the salad.

★ Serve it all in a large bowl, drizzled with the dressing.

HOW TO BREAK THE PLASTIC HABIT
It's MUCH easier than you think!

NEVER STORE YOUR FOOD IN PLASTIC — USE THESE INSTEAD

Lakeland sells three 1l Kilner Jars for £10.40, and six 490ml Mason Jam Jars for £15.99 (both lakeland.co.uk).

Daily Mail, 'How to Break the Plastic Habit' (6th February) features Kilner 1 litre Jars.

NEVER STORE YOUR FOOD IN PLASTIC — USE THESE INSTEAD

If YOU have a cupboard full of plastic storage containers, don't feel guilty — and definitely don't just throw them all away. Instead, conduct a proper plastic audit.

Consign any that are old and scratched, or that have been through the dishwasher numerous times, to recycling.

Stop using the containers for food as soon as they become scuffed, scratched, sticky, cloudy (this could indicate toxic chemicals are leaching) and repurpose them for non-food storage. And don't use them to reheat or defrost frozen food in the microwave — use a microwaveable plate instead.

Even if all your storage is plastic, the solace is in the fact that repeatedly reusing is an environmental plus.

If you are serious about cutting back on your plastic imprint, make a pact not to buy any more. Get clever about repurposing butter tubs, takeaway food containers or old biscuit selection tins, and explore the huge variety of non-plastic alternatives...

GLASS
CONSIDER glass your new food-storage ideal. This is the most readily available and inexpensive way to store your food, particularly if you wash and reuse jam and sauce jars.

Glass containers are a marvellous way to store leftovers. Many can be used safely in the microwave (after removing the lid), but make sure you let the glass warm to room temperature first to prevent the risk of it cracking in the heat.

Glass jars are great for freezing, too, as long as you leave about 20 per cent of the space empty to allow the food to expand.

Lakeland sells three 1l Kilner Jars for £10.40, and six 490ml Mason Jam Jars for £15.99 (both lakeland.co.uk).

If you are concerned about the effects of plastic possibly leaching into food, it is worth noting that many jar lids are made of plastic or coated with a plastic lining, so it's a good idea to avoid filling your jars to the point where food is in contact with the lid. And when shopping for new jars, aim to find ones with rubber rather than plastic seals.

STAINLESS STEEL
STAINLESS steel food containers are practically unbreakable, repairable and safe. And with the addition of a little silicone in the grooves of their lids, they can be made airtight.

Metal containers with an airtight lid work well in the freezer, and a big plus is that food can be defrosted in the container directly on the stove over a low heat.

When shopping, look for high quality, food-grade stainless steel, which contains nickel to prevent rusting. Stainless steel is good for storing bread and pastries, too, as well as tea and coffee. Try a stainless steel tea, coffee and sugar canister trio from John Lewis (£12.50, johnlewis.com).

Airtight food containers can also be used in the fridge for storing salad and vegetables — simply add a little moisture to the bottom of the box or wrap the greens in a damp cotton towel to prevent them from drying out.

TIN
AS WET food can make tin containers start to rust, you should use these only as a storage option for dry food.

They are also not an option for long-term storage because they are rarely airtight — contact with air could make

Coconut Lime and Rum Drizzle Cake

A wonderfully moist, light loaf cake that has a delicious taste of the tropics

CATEGORIES: DESSERT, AFTERNOON TEA, DESSERT, GOLDEN CASTER

HOW TO MAKE THIS RECIPE

1. Preheat the oven to 180°C/ 160°C/Gas Mark 4. Lightly butter the base and sides of a 900g loaf tin, line with greaseproof paper and set to one side. Place the butter and Golden Caster Sugar in a large Mason Cash bowl and beat with an electric whisk until pale and fluffy.
2. Add the lime zest and then add the eggs, a little at a time, whisking well in between each addition. Sift the flour over the egg mixture and then add the desiccated coconut. Beat together with a wooden spoon until thoroughly combined. Add the coconut milk and beat again with the wooden spoon.
3. Pour into the prepared loaf tin and level off the top. Bake for 55 minutes until golden and risen, check the loaf is done by inserting skewer (it should come out clean). Meanwhile, place the lime juice, Golden Caster Sugar and rum in a small saucepan and heat very gently until dissolved, then remove from heat.
4. Lightly prick the top of the baked cake with a skewer. Drizzle the lime and sugar mixture all over the top of the cake, scatter over the flaked coconut and allow to stand in the tin for 10 minutes. Carefully remove from the tin and allow to cool completely on a wire rack. Slice and serve or store in an airtight tin for up to two days.

INGREDIENTS

FOR THE CAKE

- Golden Caster Sugar 225g
- 125g butter, softened plus extra for greasing
- Zest 3 limes
- 4 medium eggs, beaten
- 200g self raising flour
- 50g desiccated coconut
- 150ml coconut milk
- 25g flaked coconut, toasted

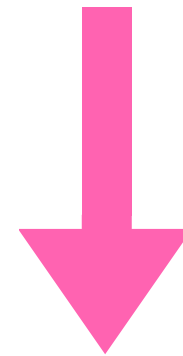

FOR THE DRIZZLE

- Golden Caster Sugar 100g
