Answer from last month puzzle

The first column and the third column when divided by 3 gives the middle column number.

The first 2 digits of the number comes from the left column and last 2 from the third column.

In the first row, $36/3 = 12$ & $48/3 = 16$ so, the middle number is 1216.

Similarly, in the second row, $24/3 = 8$ & $72/3 = 24$ so, the middle number is 824.

Therefore, we can find the missing number as:

$$42/3 = 14 \text{ \& } 51/3 = 17$$

So, the missing number will be 1417

2016 Home Buyers and Sellers Generational Trends Report

For the report, Younger Baby Boomers (buyers 51 to 60) and Older Baby Boomers (buyers 61 to 69) were broken into two separate categories as they have differing demographics and buying behaviors. Younger Boomers consist of 16 percent of recent buyers and Older Boomers consist of 15 percent of recent buyers. Younger Boomers have higher median household incomes and are more likely to have children under the age of 18 in their home. Younger Boomers are also more likely to buy a multi-generational home. As the sandwich generation, they are nearly equally likely to buy this type of home for both children over 18 living at home and caretaking for aging parents. Younger Boomers buy for an array of reasons such as a job-relocation, desire for a smaller home, and change in their family situation. Older Boomers are often moving due to retirement, desire to be closer to friends and family, and desire for a smaller home. Older Boomers typically move the longest distance compared to all other buyers at a median of 34 miles. Older Boomers also project the length of time they will live in their home is the longest at 20 years.

The Silent Generation (buyers 70 to 90) represents the smallest share of buyers at nine percent. As most of these buyers are likely to have retired or scaled back their work demands, they have the lowest median household incomes. The primary reasons to purchase are the desire to be closer to friends and family, the desire for a smaller home, and for retirement. The Silent Generation is least likely to purchase a detached single-family home. Thirty percent purchased in senior-related housing. They tend to purchase the newest homes and are least likely to make compromises on their home purchase.

Home Buyers and Sellers Generational Trends

Among home sellers, Gen X is the largest generation of sellers at 25 percent, followed closely by Older Boomers at 24 percent. Consistent with past reports, Gen Y and Gen X tend to trade up to a larger and more expensive home. Younger Boomers stay at similarly priced and sized homes, while Older Boomers and the Silent Generation are often downsizing to a smaller and lower priced home. Among all sellers, 14 percent wanted to move earlier than they did, but could not because their home was worth less than their mortgage balance. This was most common among Gen X sellers—19 percent had the situation that they could not sell when they wanted to originally.

Thirteen percent of home buyers purchased a multi-generational home to take care of aging parents, for cost savings, and because children over the age of 18 are moving back. The two largest generations of home buyers who purchased a multi-generational home were ages 51 to 60 years and 70 to 90 years, both with 16 percent of buyers.

Buyers who were 61 to 69 primarily purchased for retirement (20 percent), and buyers between 70 and 90 years old purchased their home to be closer to family and friends (22 percent).

Overall, buyers expect to live in their homes for a median of 14 years, while 26 percent say that they are never moving. For buyers 35 years and younger, the expected length of time is only 10 years compare to 20 years for buyers 61 to 69 years.

Among nearly all generations of home buyers, the first step taken was to look online for properties. Thirty-eight percent of buyers that were 35 and younger, 43 percent aged 36 to 50, 47 percent aged 51 to 60, and 53 percent of buyers aged 61 to 69 looked online for properties for sale. The first step that was taken by 70 to 90 year old buyers was to contact a real estate agent.

Incidents of Ransomware on the Rise

Protect Yourself and Your Organization

Hospitals, school districts, state and local governments, law enforcement agencies, small businesses, large businesses—these are just some of the entities impacted recently by ransomware, an insidious type of malware that encrypts, or locks, valuable digital files and demands a ransom to release them.

The inability to access the important data these kinds of organizations keep can be catastrophic in terms of the loss of sensitive or proprietary information, the disruption to regular operations, financial losses incurred to restore systems and files, and the potential harm to an organization's reputation.

And, of course, home computers are just as susceptible to ransomware, and the loss of access to personal and often irreplaceable items—including family photos, videos, and other data—can be devastating for individuals as well.

Ransomware has been around for a few years, but during 2015, law enforcement saw an increase in these types of cyber attacks, particularly against organizations because the payoffs are higher. And if the first three months of this year are any indication, the number of ransomware incidents—and the ensuing damage they cause—will grow even more in 2016 if individuals and organizations don't prepare for these attacks in advance.

In a ransomware attack, victims—upon seeing an e-mail addressed to them—will open it and may click on an attachment that appears legitimate, like an invoice or an electronic fax, but which actually contains the malicious ransomware code. Or the e-mail might contain a legitimate-looking URL, but when a victim clicks on it, they are directed to a website that infects their computer with malicious software.

Once the infection is present, the malware begins encrypting files and folders on local drives, any attached drives, backup drives, and potentially other computers on the same network that the victims computer is attached to. Users and organizations are generally not aware they have been infected until they can no longer access their data or until they begin to see computer messages advising them of the attack and demands for a ransom payment in exchange for a decryption key. These messages include instructions on how to pay the ransom, usually with bitcoins because of the anonymity this virtual currency provides.

Ransomware attacks are not only proliferating, they're becoming more sophisticated. Several years ago, ransomware was normally delivered through spam e-mails, but because e-mail systems got better at filtering out spam, cyber criminals turned to spear phishing e-mails targeting specific individuals.

And in newly identified instances of ransomware, some cyber criminals aren't using e-mails at all. According to FBI Cyber Division Assistant Director James Trainor, "These criminals have evolved over time and now bypass the need for an individual to click on a link. They do this by seeding legitimate websites with malicious code, taking advantage of unpatched software on end-user computers."

The FBI doesn't support paying a ransom in response to a ransomware attack. Said Trainor, "Paying a ransom doesn't guarantee an organization that it will get its data back—we've seen cases where organizations never got a decryption key after having paid the ransom. Paying a ransom not only emboldens current cyber criminals to target more organizations, it also offers an incentive for other criminals to get involved in this type of illegal activity. And finally, by paying a ransom, an organization might inadvertently be funding other illicit activity associated with criminals."

So what does the FBI recommend? As ransomware techniques and malware continue to evolve—and because it's difficult to detect a ransomware compromise before it's too late—organizations in particular should focus on two main areas:

- Prevention efforts—both in terms of awareness training for employees and robust technical prevention controls; and
- The creation of a solid business continuity plan in the event of a ransomware attack. (See sidebar for more information.)

"There's no one method or tool that will completely protect you or your organization from a ransomware attack," said Trainor. "But contingency and remediation planning is crucial to business recovery and continuity—and these plans should be tested regularly." In the meantime, according to Trainor, the FBI will continue working with its local, federal, international, and private sector partners to combat ransomware and other cyber threats.

If you think you or your organization have been the victim of ransomware, contact your local FBI field office and report the incident to the Bureau's Internet Crime Complaint Center.

Tips for Dealing with the Ransomware Threat

While the below tips are primarily aimed at organizations and their employees, some are also applicable to individual users.

Prevention Efforts

- Make sure employees are aware of ransomware and of their critical roles in protecting the organization's data.
- Patch operating system, software, and firmware on digital devices (which may be made easier through a centralized patch management system).
- Ensure antivirus and anti-malware solutions are set to automatically update and conduct regular scans.
- Manage the use of privileged accounts—no users should be assigned administrative access unless absolutely needed, and only use administrator accounts when necessary.
- Configure access controls, including file, directory, and network share permissions appropriately. If users only need read specific information, they don't need write-access to those files or directories.
- Disable macro scripts from office files transmitted over e-mail. Implement software restriction policies or other controls to prevent programs from executing from common ransomware locations (e.g., temporary folders supporting popular Internet browsers, compression/decompression programs).

Business Continuity Efforts

- Back up data regularly and verify the integrity of those backups regularly.
- Secure your backups. Make sure they aren't connected to the computers and networks they are backing up.

Boxing with Parkinson's

We are learning every day that there are ways in which people with Parkinson's disease can enhance their daily quality of life and even build impressive power, strength, flexibility and speed! By exercising with Coaches who know the ropes, you can fight your way out of the corner and start to feel and function better.

Boxing works by moving your body in all planes of motion while continuously changing the routine as you progress through the workout. This type of training has proven that anyone, at any level of Parkinson's can lessen their symptoms and lead a healthier/happier life.

Exercise as Medicine

Achieve wellness through prescriptive prevention & recovery exercise training with an exercise professional who is trained and credentialed to work with chronic diseases, levels of risk, motivational readiness and personal preferences.

By engaging in regular physical activity you can reduce medication dependence, help maintain functional independence and improve your quality of life.

Tai Chi

Tai Chi creates better balance through exercise, physical relaxation and meditation.

Tai Chi is particularly effective for health and healing, strength, and disease prevention. It helps the digestive system work better, increases calmness and awareness and improves balance.

Tai Chi is a "wholeness" exercise involving the body and the mind. You are learning to move and function in a whole way.

Golf Course & Practice Area Info

Dress Code & Golf Course Etiquette

As a friendly reminder, members and their guests are required to adhere to the standards set at Frenchman's Creek Beach & Country Club. We all must follow the proper dress code policy on the golf courses as well as all of the practice facilities. Men are required to wear a collared shirt at all times. No denim, workout attire, tank tops or short shorts are acceptable attire for these areas. All members and guests should follow the proper golf course rules of etiquette. We ask that you adhere to the 90 degree rule while driving your cart, please fill in all of your divots with sand, rake all bunkers, fix all ball marks on the green and maintain a four (4) hour pace of play. Cell phones are prohibited on the course as well as the practice facilities. Please respect your fellow members and enjoy your golf.

Practice Facility

Wes Dillard has done a great job with the condition of both the North and South end of the Driving Range. To maintain the excellent conditions we ask that you refrain from driving golf carts up onto either practice tee. If you are in need of assistance, please let your professional staff member know and we will be more than happy to assist you.

The practice facility is available every day for members and their guests for warm-up prior to your round of golf, for a golf lesson with one of our instructional staff members and for working on your game and refining your swing. Please Note: Children under the age of sixteen (16) must be accompanied by an adult and are required to utilize the North End (Back End) of the practice facility located by the sales center. All children should be dressed in golf attire at all times when using any part of the practice facility including the putting green.

Scorecards

We have brand NEW scorecards in place for both the South & North Courses. The newly sized scorecards fit much better on the carts. The list below outlines the changes of a few tee's and Hole Indexes.

- The course and slope ratings have been updated.
- The men's Indexes have been changed on Holes #1, #7 on both courses.
- The ladies Indexes on the North Course have been changed on Holes #2, #4, #6 and #8.
- The ladies Indexes on the South Course have been changed on Holes #11, #13 and #14.

Notice of Implemented Rule

Water Hazards Marked with "Yellow Stakes"

North Course: Hole #5

South Course: Holes #4, #5, #9, #11 and #12

If a player's ball is hit into the water hazards on the above holes identified by yellow stakes and or yellow lines the player may use the following options under Rule 26-1.

26-1. Relief for Ball in Water Hazard

It is a question of fact whether a ball that has been found after having been struck toward a water hazard is in the hazard. In the absence of knowledge or virtual certainty that a ball struck toward a water hazard, but not found, is in the hazard, the player must proceed under Rule 27-1.

If a ball is found in a water hazard or if it is known or virtually certain that a ball that has not been found is in the water hazard (whether the ball lies in water or not), the player may under penalty of one stroke:

A. Proceed under the stroke and distance provision of Rule 27-1 by playing a ball as nearly as possible at the spot from which the original ball was played (see Rule 20-5): or

B. Drop a ball behind the water hazard, keeping the point at which the original ball last crossed the margin of the water hazard directly between the hole and the spot on which the ball is dropped, with no limit to how far behind the water hazard the ball may be dropped: or

C. Proceed under our Local Rule and play a ball from the Ball Drop Area. (Green Tee)

Holes #5, #9 & #11

- Note:
1. You must DROP the ball in the Ball Drop Area.
 2. You CAN NOT tee the ball up from the Ball Drop Area.

GOLF CONTINUED

Ask the Pro

Rich Luchini, PGA, Head Golf Professional

Golf is played, for the most part, without supervision of a referee or umpire. The game relies on the integrity of the individual to show consideration for other players and to abide by the rules.

Many people think that the Rules of Golf are there to state what you did wrong or can't do. There are many Rules of Golf that are there to help you in many different ways.

Here is a situation of ORDER OF PLAY that comes up many times in our Member/Member Match Play Events and also friendly matches on a daily basis.

Players Wendi & Marleen are playing a match against Jenifer & Jane and all four balls are on the green in two strokes. Wendi's ball is closer to the hole than any other ball and it's Marleen's turn to play because she is the farthest from the hole. The team or side of Wendi & Marleen decide that Wendi will putt before Marleen so she can try and make the putt for birdie to put pressure on the other team to have to make their putts to tie the hole. Wendi made her putt from 6 feet for a birdie and Jenifer & Jane both missed their putts for birdie and Wendi & Marleen won the hole.

This was a perfect example of knowing the rules of golf and how they can help you. If the Rules of Golf are followed, all players will gain maximum enjoyment from the game.

Rule 31-4: ORDER OF PLAY

The balls belonging to the same team or side may be played in the order the team or side considers best.

If you have any rules questions or rule situations that you would like discussed for future publications, please submit them to the Golf Pro Shop or by email at rluchini@frenchmancreek.com.
