Orientation

Part of the 32 states that shape the country of México, the San Luis Potosí region is located in north-central of México. San Luis Potosí is the capital of the state.

Its official name is Estado Libre y Soberano de San Luis Potosí, with an extension of 63,068 square kilometers. One of the largest states of the Mexican Republic. It is bordered by seven states in total, Nuevo Leon to the north, north-east with Tamaulipas, east with Veracruz, south-east with Hidalgo, west with Zacatecas and with Queretaro and Guanajuato to the south.

San Luis Potosí is considered rich in culture and history. Native Indians lived in the San Luis Potosí area as far back as 10,000 BC. Spanish explorer Hernan Cortes arrived in 1522, beginning European colonization. The Mexican national anthem was written here in 1854 by Gonzales Bocanegra.

Economically, the city has a privileged location as the union between the three main cities of the country: México City, Monterrey and Guadalajara. Part of its wealth and growth stemmed from the discovery of silver and gold veins during the 1590's, making it an important financial district in the north side of the country since the seventeenth century.

Weather

San Luis Potosí has a dry, semi-arid climate. Temperatures normally range from 53 to 86 degrees Fahrenheit in the warmer months of April through September. During the winter, temperatures can vary between 39 and 72 degrees Fahrenheit. December is San Luis Potosí's coldest month.

The recent changes in climate attributed to global warming have caused the weather in San Luis Potosí to become unpredictable, with higher temperatures each summer and unusually cold winters where the city could experience mild snow storms. There is also an increase in annual rainfall.

City Design and Layout

The State is divided in 58 municipalities, spread in four geographical zones: Region Huasteca, Region Media, Region Centro and Altiplano Potosíno. The metropolitan area is formed by four of these municipalities: San Luis Potosí, Soledad, Mexquitic de Carmona, and Cerro de San Pedro.

The exits include: exit to 57 highway to México, exit to Monterrey (airport), exit to Rio Verde (Huasteca Potosína area), exit to Historic Downtown, and exit to Salvador Nava (to the Las Lomas area)
- + Distribuidor Norte has three main exits that connect Distribuidor Juarez with important avenues as: Blvd. Santiago, Av Acceso Norte, the highway to Matehuala and the International Airport

Neighborhood Overview

There are different types of housing in México, from spacious houses on landscaped, private lots to high-rise apartments in a bustling city. Rental properties can be found in four to five distinct neighborhoods and the downtown area. Those more popular areas are:

- + La Loma Golf Course
- + Campestre Golf Course
- + Lomas
- + Pedregal
- + Tangamanga
- + Downtown area

The city is also growing to the northwest side. These such neighborhoods include:

- + Villamanga
- + Horizontes
- + Alto Lago

Each area has its own rental pricing. Finding a rental property is not like in the U.S. where there are multiple listings. It requires contacts and creativity and choices may be limited by availability, budgets, and costs. It is important to have flexibility during the housing search.

Getting Around

There are several options for traveling via public transportation. We recommend you do not use public transportation. However, in case you do, be sure to ride with caution, keeping in mind that it can be crowded, arrive sporadically, and sometimes be unsafe. Watch for pickpockets on all public transportation.

By Bus

The Secretaria de Comunicaciones y Transportes of San Luis Potosí City offers information about the suburban bus routes and maps on their webpage. Note that there is no “arrival time” schedule available.

By Taxi

It is advised that you never take a taxi from the street; rather, you should call a taxi company to send a taxi to your location. There are many safe taxi companies throughout the city. Some of these companies include:

Companies	Telephone
Radio Taxi Alorta	(487) 872-1615
Radio Taxi San Luis	01 (444) 123-1312
Taxi Centro	01 (444) 810-4040
Taxi Express	(444) 820-4292
UBER	Phone app

There is also the smart-phone app UBER, which allows you to request a ride from safe taxis all over the city. Once requested, you'll get picked up in minutes. Rather than pay the taxi driver directly, you pay through the app using your credit card or PayPal account, thereby eliminating the need to carry cash. When you arrive at your location, UBER sends you an email with the receipt for that ride.

By Car

Before driving, it is recommended that you obtain a Mexican driving license. In order to receive a Mexican Drivers' License, you must be over 18.

Licenses are issued at the Modulo de Licencias de Plaza del Valle, in Avenida Rodríguez Barragán 1380, units B16 and B17, Col. Del Parque from Monday to Friday from 8:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. and Saturdays from 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m.

You will need to bring with you a copy and the original of the following:

1. Official ID (Passport)
2. Proof of residence (telephone or water receipt)
3. Proof of payment (Fee)
 - + We recommend that you ask for a Chofer Particular, not an Automovilista. If you drive an SUV, truck, or a van you must use a Chofer Particular
4. Proof of having passed the driving test (expedited by the Dirección General de Seguridad Pública Municipal)
5. For foreigners, it is necessary to present a document that attests to his/her legal stay in the country

Driving in México can be a challenging experience to foreigners at first. Mexican drivers tend to be more aggressive than drivers in Europe or the United States. You should always be alert and on the lookout for drivers changing lanes or trying to get around you. Keep in mind that people often do not use turn signals; therefore, your turn signal probably will not have any effect on other drivers, so be extra careful and make sure you have enough space to change lanes. Do not expect other drivers to slow down for you.

Always be cautious at stop lights and intersections even if you have the right of way. Pedestrians tend to cross highways and streets at any point, so regardless of signs, watch out for people crossing.

If you ever need to rent a vehicle, you have several options:

By Bicycle

Due to the extension of the city, the use of bicycles is not recommended. The city offers multiple parks with bike tracks, visited specially during the weekends by the local families. One of these parks is Tangmanga Park. On Sunday mornings, Carranza Avenue is closed to transit. This allows for a “family ride,” when families can bike, skate, or walk peacefully.

By Foot

Besides the downtown area, the city does not offer a proper design for walking, so it is not recommended to walk around the city. The historic downtown area, however, is great for walking.

Weekend Trips

San Luis Potosí has several destinations nearby where people go to spend their weekends.

Huasteca Potosína is a natural desert setting filled with remarkable mountains and rock formations. La Huasteca’s vertical wall-like cliffs and canyons attract daring mountain climbers with a challenging experience. La Huasteca is home to a variety of flora and fauna typical of desert regions of northern México. This is one of the most beautiful natural places in all of México. It has a rich jungle ecosystem and exceptional beauty with its rivers, chasms, and waterfalls. It is the perfect area for a day of adventure tourism. The main sites of interest in the Huasteca Potosína are the Tamul Waterfall, the Bridge of God, the Castle of Sir Edward James, Xilitla, and Micos Waterfalls.

Several rivers in the area offer swimming and rafting excursions. There are special adventure agencies that can organize a trip for you.

Real de Catorce is considered a member of the Pueblos Mágicos of México (Magic towns). This is a colorful town with multiple cultural activities. It was considered “Wirikuta” (a highly sacred place in Huichol) by the UNESCO.

Health

Health System

Healthcare in México is usually very good, and in some places, it is top of the line. Most doctors and dentists in México today received at least part of their training in the U.S. and continue to travel to the U.S. and Europe for ongoing training.

First-rate hospitals are located in at least every medium to large city throughout México. Healthcare in México is also generally less expensive than what one can expect to pay in the U.S. and other first world countries.

Safety and Security

At Home

Normally your company will provide a security briefing prior to your move to México. In some cases, they will also hire a security specialist to review the property before signing any lease.

Some neighborhoods do offer gated communities, but it is still advised that residents be aware and cautious at all times. It is important to realize that break-ins are always a possibility no matter where you go or how good your security may be.

On the Streets

Regarding safety, it is recommended to keep a low profile and exercise caution as in any other major city in the world. Be aware of where to go and not to go.

In the Car

In case you are in an accident, do not move your vehicle. Immediately call your company lawyer and insurance agent. Then wait for a police officer.

Use extreme caution at all times; many accidents occur when it rains because the roads are extremely slick and hazardous. Be a cautious driver.

Traffic Tickets: If you are pulled over for a traffic violation, be polite, accept the ticket, and ask where you can pay it (Donde pago?). Do not offer a bribe. If you offer a bribe and the policeman does not accept it, you could be required to pay a fine as well as the ticket.

Emergency Contact

- + Emergency – 066
- + Fire Department – (444) 815 3583 or (444) 815 8090
- + Police – (444) 824 0891 or (444) 824 0893

Utilities and Services

Upon moving to México, transferees are generally responsible for arranging their telephone, cable, and Internet. There are several providers that offer different plans.

Helpful Hint: Be flexible and patient, repairs usually take longer than expected.

Telephone

There are only a few companies in México that provide telephone landlines; each has its own offers on plans and prices. The companies you can hire for this service are Telmex, Cablevision, and Axtel.

The international telephone country code for México is +52, and the city code for San Luis Potosí is (444). Therefore, local telephone numbers have the following format: +52(444)0000-0000. In the case of mobile phones, the format is +52-1-(444)0000-0000. If you are making local calls, the +52 or +52-1 prefixes should be dropped.

Mobile Phones

Companies that offer mobile plans are Telcel, Iusacell, and Movistar. International calls are very expensive, so most people use internet-based telephone or calling cards as an alternative. Roaming charges are also extremely high. Almost all the cell phone plans include unlimited calls to México, USA, and Canada.

It is recommended that before leaving your home country, you contact your cell phone service provider and ask for international coverage. Your provider will be able to activate an international plan for a minimal charge. Upon return to your country, you can cancel the international coverage and the plan charges will be prorated on your bill. The international coverage allows you data usage and reduces the charges for texts and phone calls.

Television

The following are cable television providers in México:

- + Izzi: In addition to watching TV at home, for a small monthly fee, Izzi allows users access to online streaming of their channels on any computer or tablet with their “Veo” application. www.izzi.mx/productos
- + Dish México www.dish.com.mx/#!/home
- + SKY México www.sky.com.mx/sky
- + Cablecom
- + Total Play
- + VE TV

Internet

High-speed internet providers include Telmex, with its Infinitum product, and Cablevision, which provides Internet via cable and is usually a bit faster for uploads and downloads. Infinitum users also have access to the Prodigy Wi-Fi access from thousands of hotspots around México. Additionally, many cafes and restaurants in the city have free Wi-Fi for customers. Other options include Poder Net, Axtel, and Quadsys.

On-demand Internet providers of streaming media in México are:

- + Netflix
- + Cinopolis Klic
- + Crackle
- + Clarovideo
- + Veo

Yard and Trash Services

Waste collection vehicles make frequent stops around each neighborhood in the city; residents are responsible for leaving their trash bags outside the house before the vehicle passes. It is expected that you give the waste collectors a weekly tip for their services. If they are municipal workers, however, you do not have to pay; only give them a tip around Christmas. Unless you live in a gated community, you will need to hire a private company or a gardener to do your lawn.

Gas

A private company usually distributes gas and the building administration charges the tenants. Houses normally have a private contract with gas companies and receive the service depending on their consumption. Transferees will not need to make these arrangements given that apartments and houses have normally been occupied by previous tenants so there is already a gas company that provides the service. All bills can be paid online, at banks, or even at supermarkets.

Electricity and Water

Water and electricity bills always stay under the landlord's name. The bills are paid every 60 days. The electricity and water companies are government owned. For this reason, there is a lot of bureaucracy that can create frustration when dealing with inaccurate invoices or meter readings.

 Helpful Hint: Transferees should maintain records showing proof of payment of all services, particularly water and electricity.

Hiring Household Help

It is common for people in San Luis Potosí to hire household help. Many houses and apartments have living space should you choose to hire a live-in maid; however, there is also the option of just having a maid during the day for cooking and cleaning. Many people also hire drivers and gardeners.

Dwellworks does not provide assistance hiring household help. We recommend you talk to the owner of the property to see if he or she can recommend people who have worked in the house or apartment before. Or, check with other expats from your company who have hired these services. The safest way to hire a maid is through friends who can give you recommendations.
