PERSONALIZED FULL OPTION BIB

Bib personalization and unique QR codes are now available.

Bib personalization is a great way to promote early registration and create a personal keepsake for your participants. We can print participant names, team names, age, gender, emergency contact information or any other information needed on the bib. Printing individual participant information eliminates the need for labels, saving valuable time. Use variable data to better organize participants on race day by calling out staging areas or corral numbers.

Unique participant QR codes can be used in a number of ways to enhance event organization, safety and the participant's experience. A quick-response (QR) code is a two-dimensional barcode. When the QR code is scanned using an app on a smartphone, the app reads the encoded information. This information can be text, a phone number, important medical information, a sponsors coupon or a URL. Through the events URL the participant can be directed to their personal results page providing real time results.

RAINBOW COLOR CODING SYSTEM

The Rainbow color coding system works well for all pull tag numbers. First introduced in 1982, the Rainbow System is still very popular, inexpensive and an easy way to determine age group award winners.

Using the specially designed Rainbow color coding stickers, each runner's pull tag is marked with a colored sticker that represents his age group (15 colors available). In addition, the shape of the sticker (square or oval) represents the gender of the participant.

Using the pull tag system, as participants cross the finish line and enter the chute system, their pull tags are collected and spindled in order of finish. Race officials, searching for the top three in each age group, are then able to go through the tags looking for the first three of each color instead of having to read each tag. Awards ceremonies are typically ready before the last runner crosses the finish line.

Using the tag posting strips, tags can be removed from the stringers, stapled on the strips and posted for all finishers to see and compare time and place in their age groups.
